Costume designer

What is a costume designer?

A costume designer is a person who designs costumes for films and commercials

What does a costume designer do?

They create the look of each character by designing outfits and accessories depending on the characters style and complexity

Where does a costume designer work?

They work on video shoots with the actors designing their clothes

What is the average salary of a costume designer?

About 63,760 a year

What type of education do you need for this career?

There is no formal education required but a bachelor's degree and certificate could be helpful

What is the product of a costume designer?

The product of a costume designer is costumes for the actors

Who is a person in this career

- Eiko Ishioka
- Worked from Japan
- She went to Tokyo National university of fine arts and music

What inspired Eiko ishioka to be a costume designer?

She always loved the costumes in movies and wanted to be apart of that career.

Why did I choose Eiko ishioka?

I chose her because I like the costumes she has designed for the movies she's worked for.

I find this career interesting because I like clothes a lot and I think it would be cool to design them for movies and commercials.